

FPF · FAQs

FAQ #1: During the fall semester, can I only take classes within FPF?

No! FPF students are free to take most 0.5-2 unit main-campus electives for credit. These include Berkeley Connect, student-taught DeCal courses, and PE classes. Visit fpf.berkeley.edu/course-offerings for a more comprehensive list.

FAQ #2: What do I do if I can't take my major classes in FPF?

Regardless of your major, all L&S students are required to fulfill Seven-Course Breadth, Quantitative Reasoning, R&C, and AC requirements. Taking these in FPF can give you a head start, and is a great opportunity to explore subjects beyond what you're familiar with! If you're worried about falling behind, meet with an advisor in mid-fall to come up with a 2-year or 4-year plan.

FAQ #3: What are some extra resources available in FPF?

- Math Drop-in and Writing Tutoring. FPF offers student-run drop-in tutoring weekly for all math courses we offer, as well as writing tutoring for multiple disciplines.
- Events and workshops. Past events include the FPF Speaker Series by our FPF instructors, as well as panels by our Student Ambassadors.

FAQ #4: Who is available for guidance and support?

- FPF Advisors. Your wonderful FPF advisors are responsible for fewer students than other L&S advisors, so it's often easier to make an appointment with them.
- Student Ambassadors. These former FPF students lead panels and workshops in the fall, and are always happy to answer your questions and provide their student perspectives.

More questions?

Email fpf@berkeley.edu,
or connect with an FPF
Ambassador on bCourses!